

2012 GOES HOLLYWOOD: VIEWER DISCERNMENT ADVISED

By Cynthia Flores –Signet (Article from Nov. 2009 newsletter, www.ancientwisdomteachings.com)

What is all the hype over 2012? Everyone is talking about it, including me. With the communication technologies that are now available to us, we are bombarded by information...channeled and otherwise...streaming its way through You Tube, forwarded emails, books and now the big screen. Is it TRULY about a day that will literally turn the world upside down, or is it a passage through a window of time...the beginnings of which we are in the midst of now? The only way to decipher through the distortion, both historical and fabricated is using our own discernment. The truth is vibratory, and our intuition (higher consciousness) seldom steers us off course, when and if we choose to use it. Some golden rules:

- Does this information instill love or fear?
- From what source did this information originate, and how clear is the channel that is disseminating it?
- Are they stating an exact moment, date, place and time that a predicted catastrophe or miracle is to occur? No one knows this. Predictions are merely sign posts, and time and events are mutable through consciousness.

So many generalizations are being used....the term "elders" for one. There is no one group of elders living in just one village on the earth who are the all seeing eye. There are definitely some wisdom keepers of many indigenous traditions who hold knowledge from the original people, and teachers of the new consciousness who have useful tools and important information for us that is worth adhering to, particularly in this time NOW. The term MAYA is a reference to an evolved state of consciousness which we must attain as humankind...the Christed consciousness of love and compassion...the consciousness that operates in harmony with universal principles and operates from an understanding that is cosmic in origin. It does not operate within the laws of 3rd dimensional reality or linear time, nor from the artificial marking of time by the Gregorian calendar from which our lives have been based. It is impossible to understand the concept of 2012 and cosmic time through the linear mind. The heart and higher mind must connect. The concept of 2012 is about our own transformation...it is about waking up to a multi-dimensional reality. There have been many Suns, epochs of time that this planet has passed through. Another one is arriving soon. Some say it has already begun, and I believe it has. There will be earth changes occurring as there will be changes in us. We are the microcosm of the macrocosm. Hopefully we will pass through it in a state of balance and conscious awareness, without fear.

It is our mind that creates this world. Do not believe, just because wise men say so. Do not believe, just because it has always been that way. Do not believe, just because others may believe it so. Examine and experience for yourself! -- Kalama Sutra: The Buddha
